Columbia Community Mental Health
Wraparound Referral

Thank you for your interest in Columbia Community Mental Health's (CCMH) Wraparound program. Wraparound is a voluntary program that provides intensive care coordination and peer support services to multi-system involved youth and their caregivers.

To be eligible for Wraparound youth need to meet the following requirements:

- Be enrolled as a Columbia Pacific Coordinated Care Organization (CPCCO) member;
- Be involved with more than one youth and family serving system;
- Experiencing complex needs that have not been met using traditional supports;
- Have completed a mental health assessment 180 days prior to this referral at CCMH or will complete a mental health assessment within two weeks of this referral submission at CCMH.

Youth are automatically eligible for the Wraparound program if they are enrolled in one of the following programs: Secure Children Inpatient Program/Secure Adolescent Inpatient Program, Psychiatric Residential Treatment Services, or a Commercial Sexually Exploited Children's residential program.

Once we receive the referral, the family and/or youth will be contacted by a Wraparound staff member to review the referral and start assessing the eligibility of the youth for Wraparound. The family and youth may be asked to complete a Columbia Community Mental Health Assessment before starting Wraparound.

If you are a professional referring a young person to Wraparound, please complete the ROI attached for your agency/program.

CONSENT FOR CARE COORDINATION SCREENING

I understand that _____ (youth name) has been referred to CCMH's Wraparound program ("Wraparound") and this will include a review of records and disclosures of protected health information.

The youth and their family understand that they will be contacted by a member of the Wraparound team to get more specific information about what to expect from Wraparound and the Wraparound Review Committee. The youth and family understand that the information collected during the screening process will be disclosed to the Wraparound Review Committee as evidence of their eligibility or ineligibility for the Wraparound process.

The Wraparound Review Committee will meet to review their criteria for participation in the Wraparound program. The review committee is made up of community partners that include Mental Health, Juvenile Department, Columbia Health Services, Child Welfare, School Partners, Developmental Disabilities, Youth Era, Columbia Pacific Coordinated Care Organization (CPCCO). The team will review the youth and the family's strengths, needs, natural supports, and agencies involvement.

If the youth and family do not meet criteria for participation in the Wraparound program or choose to opt out of participation in the Wraparound planning process, they will be offered appropriate alternative resources, including intensive care coordination through CPCCO.
